

SHELL GAME

Leland Jamieson

With thanks to Joseph Chilton Pierce.

No shell—of clothes, or study, sex,
profession, gender, marriage, gold,
religion, power—none perfects
a man or woman, young or old.
It's pecking through one's shell's damp hold,
through its old membrane of albumen
to consciousness . . . perfects a human.

"Shell Game" © 2007 by Leland Jamieson

Contemporary Rhyme Vol. 4 No. 1 2007