

STONEHENGE REVISITED

Bruce Boston

When bodies align and Stonehenge shines by the moon, shadows of its pillars are drawn upon the Earth in the changing light.

You can vision the bent figures chanting in their cowls, devout and lunatic, consumed by the serial passage of night.

“Stonehenge Revisited” © 2004 by Bruce Boston