

THE YOGI RESPONDS TO AMERICA'S CRAZE FOR OWNING PET ANIMALS

Richard Moore

One definitely known pet—
look at me: I'm my own pet.
The years peeled off that coat us,
here, sitting in the lotus,
legs flexed like rubber bands,
feet there—not feet, they're hands!
Back from the world of men,
I am an ape again.

"The Yogi Responds to America's Craze for Owning Pet Animals" © 2007 by Richard Moore

Contemporary Rhyme Vol. 4 No. 3 2007